Government of Baluchistan,

Sub: Draft Proposals for Right To Information Act, Whistle Blower Protection and Right to Public Services Act.

Dear Sir,

TI Pakistan has been researching the best practices globally for the Right To Information, Whistle Blower Protection and the Right to Public Services Acts. For the progress of integrity and eliminating corruption from the country, one cannot adequately stress the importance of strong Right to Information, Whistle-blower protection and Right To Public Service laws, as the presence of these oversight elements will help promote rule of law in Pakistan.

Right to Information laws have been enacted at the Federal level and in the Provinces of Sindh, Punjab and KPK. However, there is still room for improvement in this law as this Act is silent on providing legal, administrative and employment related protection to whistleblowers for disclosing corruption. It transmits the perception that by doing so government is least interested to reduce corruption. Actually, risk of corruption is significantly intensified in situations where the reporting of malpractice is not sheltered. Therefore, protection of whistleblower is crucial to encourage the reporting of misconduct, fraud, and corruption. The Rights to Public Services Act would hold the public officials accountable if they are responsible for not providing services to the citizens within the prescribed time.

TI Pakistan has prepared draft proposals on the basis of the best practices globally, of the following Acts:

1. Right to Information
2. Whistle Blower Protection
3. Right to Public Services

The draft laws are enclosed herewith for review, amendment and enactment by the Government of Baluchistan. They comply to UNCAC requirements, ratified by the GoP in 2007 and are the need of the day.

These acts may be promulgated within three months as it would assist the government in being transparent, thus curbing corruption in the province.

We are available to provide any clarification if required.

Best Regards,

Sohail Muzaffar
Chairman
