

State of Data Disclosure of Climate Related Departments as per Access to Information Laws

OCTOBER 2024

TRANSPARENCY INTERNATIONAL
PAKISTAN

Special Message

Transparency International Pakistan has been advocating for the Right to Information for over two decades. Access to Information is a crucial component of climate governance. As one of the top five climate-vulnerable countries, Pakistan faces considerable challenges to deal with the effects of climate change.

Accessible information to the public promotes transparency in the conduct of public bodies, leading to good governance in the country. Pakistan has well-established Right to Information laws at the federal as well as in all four provinces. This study is an attempt to provide a comprehensive assessment of the status of proactive disclosure of information by climate relevant departments in the country, as mandated under proactive disclosure provision of the federal and provincial RTI laws.

I hope that the departments included in this assessment will find the report useful and implement recommendations for an effective climate action in the country.

Foreword

Information is central for informed decision-making at every level of government. It leads to strengthening of democracy. In the fight against climate change, access to information ensures an effective implementation of climate strategies. In the same vein, the State of Data Disclosure of Climate Related Departments at the Federal and Provincial levels, report by Transparency International Pakistan, assesses the proactive disclosure practices by around 60 departments across the country. Proactive disclosure of information is mandated under federal and provincial Access to Information laws in Pakistan. At the same time, the study highlights best practices and identify gaps for an improved implementation of data disclosure clauses of RTI to ensure that the citizens of Pakistan, who are disproportionately affected by climate change, have access to climate finance data and decisions made by the policy makers. This ensure citizens voices are reflected in climate planning and decision making.

The fight against Climate Change must include the voices of stakeholders at various levels (local, provincial and national) to ensure a coordinated response. Access to information of climate action builds trust among the local communities, enhances transparency, encourages confidence among the stakeholders and lead to an effective access to climate finance which is crucial for Pakistan as the fifth most vulnerable country to climate change.

Transparency International Pakistan hopes that the federal and provincial public bodies included in this assessment will use the findings to improve their implementation of proactive disclosure as mandated under respective federal and provincial Right to Information laws.

Introduction

Pakistan is one of the top five countries worst hit by climate change. The IMF estimates that Pakistan loses $2 billion annually due to climate-induced disasters.¹ It further needs $340 to address climate challenges by 2030.²

Climate governance is a concept of providing strong legislative protection to the initiatives aimed at tackling adverse effects of climate change. Effective Climate governance requires “Whole of Society” approach, bringing different stakeholders including local communities, civil society, local and sub-national governments into the climate planning and decision-making process. Therefore, informed decision-making, enabled by transparency and availability of information is central to JUST and effective environmental action.

The right to information under the Constitution of Islamic Republic of Pakistan is enshrined under Article 19-A. It envisions access to information of the government bodies, as a basic right of the citizens. It also ensures the role of information in promoting transparency among the departments pivotal to climate mitigation, adaptation, and disaster management.

Pakistan has established frameworks on the Right to Information (RTI) laws at federal and provincial level. The federal Right of Access to Information Act, 2017 applies to the departments of the federal government, while provinces have their own legislation on RTI such as Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Right to Information Act 2013, Punjab Transparency and Right to Information Act 2013, Sindh Transparency and Right to Information Act 2016, and Balochistan Right to Information Act 2021. The implementation of these laws in the letter and spirit remains bleak.

Access to information is a bedrock of good governance. It is vital for ensuring transparency and informed decision-making. Proactive disclosure approach is one step further in the realm of Right to Information in which the information is proactively revealed for public access. The Proactive Disclosure is also one of the important features of RTI laws of Pakistan.

The purpose of the Proactive Disclosure approach is to increase transparency and accountability in the matters of governance and public interest. When the public institutions make information public for informing citizens about their conduct, strategies, plans, budgetary allocations and utilization, members of the public and civil society review the provided information and offer an independent voice, thus fostering good governance.

The climate action information allows relevant stakeholders and concerned people to be informed about the decisions being taken and the status of implementation of initiatives tackling climate change. In doing so, the state of data disclosure of climate related departments in Pakistan aims to provide an independent appraisal of the level of compliance with proactive disclosure provisions by climate relevant department. The gaps highlighted in the report will assist the government in coordinated and effective climate action.

METHODOLOGY

The objective of this report is to measure the extent to which a public authority proactively discloses public information as per the applicable Sections of the following Access to Information Laws at the federal and provincial levels:

- a) The Right of Access to Information Act, 2017
- b) The Punjab Transparency & Right to Information Act 2013
- c) The Khyber Pakhtunkhwa (KP) Right to Information Act 2013
- d) The Sindh Transparency and Right to Information Act 2016
- e) The Balochistan Right to Information Act 2021

The state of data disclosure of climate related departments focuses on compliance of the 59 climate related departments with proactive disclosure provisions. Out of these 59 departments, 08 are the federal bodies, 14 are the departments of the government of Punjab, 13 are the department of the Government of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, and 12 are the departments of the Government of Sindh and Balochistan. For this assessment, TI Pakistan has only observed the ministries and departments website (similar studies have followed the same methodology³) and assessed the extent to which the required information is disclosed against each clause/item as mandated under the respective federal and provincial RTI Acts.

SCALING

The rating is given on a scale with a minimum score of 0 (non-Compliant) and the maximum score is 1 (Compliant). The scale composition is 0 for non-Compliant, 0.25 for Partially Compliant, 0.5 for Moderately Compliant, 0.75 for Largely Compliant and 1 for Compliant. Each score is also assigned a color for reporting purpose.

The eight ministries analyzed in this report as per the Section 5 of the Federal Right of Access to Information Act 2017, occupy a central position on climate related issues in Pakistan. Ensuring comprehensive information is proactively disclosed is imperative for citizens awareness on the negative impacts of climate change and the response measures adopted by different departments of the government. Section 5 of Federal Right of Access to Information Act 2017 obligates public bodies to proactively disseminate information through different mediums. As the risk of climate change further exacerbates for Pakistan, it is imperative that the federal public bodies ensure that information on climate change, climate finance, climate response is readily available. This will not only empower common men who is disproportionately affected by climate change to become aware of negative effects of climate change but will also help communities adapt mitigation and adaptation practices. At the same time, when climate finance and climate action information is publicly available, it enables the citizens to act as an oversight to climate action, resulting in improved transparency and accountability for any potential abuse.

Pakistan has made its Nationally Determined Contributions (NDC) commitments contingent upon receiving adequate climate finance. Given climate finance inflows are very low, as highlighted by Transparency International Pakistan's report "Financing Climate Action: Enhancing Effectiveness and Transparency in Pakistan's Climate Governance Frameworks", these commitments cannot be implemented without international support, climate data disclosure will also help enhance trust among bilateral and multilateral climate financiers.

The findings of the assessment reveal that there is an urgent need for improved disclosure of information by the key ministries/departments of the government with central role on climate change. For instance, Ministry of Finance (MoF), Ministry of Planning Development & Special Initiatives (MoPDSI) and Ministry of Climate Change and Environmental Coordination (MoCCEC), which play a leading role in current climate finance regime in Pakistan, have an overall compliance level 69%, 72% and 67% respectively. Similarly, the Ministry of Communication (MoC) undertakes the restoration of the damaged infrastructure, however, the overall compliance level of MoC is merely 28%. No information on budget, methods through which public can access information and annual reports including audit, performance, inquiry reports is disclosed by the MoC. The compliance level of the Ministry of Energy is only 58%. MoE has failed to disclose any information pertaining to permits, approvals, agreements, contracts etc. It is pertinent to mention that the high-priority actions detailed in the NDC focus on progress in low-carbon development, carbon sequestration, and the adoption of renewable energy. Energy being an important sector in all climate policies, the MoE must ensure access to information about its working, projects, compliance with environmental regulations so that the citizens especially at the community level, where the projects are developed, have reliable information.

PUNJAB

CLAUSES OF PROACTIVE DISCLOSURE PUNJAB TRANSPARENCY AND RIGHT TO INFORMATION ACT 2013

Like other provinces of Pakistan, Punjab is also affected by the impacts of climate change. To deal with the effects of climate change, a draft policy (2017) and action plan (2021) was made by the government of Punjab, however, the policy continued to remain unapproved internal draft for several years. In August 2024, Punjab has released Punjab Climate Change Policy and Action Plan 2024. The policy focuses on Adaptation, Mitigation and Low Carbon Development and use climate finance, technology transfer and climate budget tagging in the provincial development planning, to address the effects of climate change on the province.

The assessment of the 13 climate related departments of Government of Punjab reveals that many public bodies with key role on climate change have significantly lower compliance with climate data disclosure. For instance, Provincial Disaster Management Authority (PDMA), which are often the first-responders and primary information collectors through District Disaster Management Authorities at the district level have an important role in climate governance. However, the overall compliance of Punjab PDMA with Section 4 Proactive Disclosure, Punjab Transparency and Right to Information Act 2013 is merely 46%. PDMA is also active in the distribution of aid, goods etc. to the needy people in the aftermath of floods, however, no such data is publicly available as to how the aid was allocated, utilized and distributed among the beneficiaries.

Similarly, Punjab Climate Change Policy 2024 emphasizes integrated “forest management focusing on afforestation, reforestation, community-based forestation” as well as “Effectively implement ‘Plant for Pakistan’ to counter the impacts of climate change through a reforestation drive”. However, the overall score of the Forest Department is the lowest among the 13 departments studied, at 44%. The department has not even disclosed its budgetary information as mandated under clause ‘h’ of Punjab Transparency and RTI Act 2013.

The Planning and Development Department, which has a central role in overseeing the development schemes, do not have a functioning website. Whereas Agriculture, Housing and Finance have an overall compliance level of only 50%. The top performing departments are Irrigation and Energy with compliance levels of 86% and 83% respectively. Similarly, the overall score on clause ‘k’ i.e. facilities available with the public body for obtaining information held by it is 71%. Three highest performing clauses for 13 climate departments of Punjab are the following: Clause ‘d’, pertaining to Acts, Ordinances and Rules (92%), clause ‘a’, pertaining to particulars of public body and its functions (83%) and clause ‘l’, pertaining to particulars of public information officer (77%).

Khyber Pakhtunkhwa (KP) has higher risks to climate change due to mountainous and valley regions and to address these concerns, the climate change policy was approved in 2022. The policy puts an emphasis on improved “water, food and energy resource planning”. KP also holds the highest percentage of forest cover among the provinces, and therefore, the policy lays great importance to nature conservation and nature-based solutions. The climate change action plan was also developed alongside and offers possible adaptation and mitigation solutions based on the policy goals.

The Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Climate Change Policy 2022 aims to address the concerns of vulnerable, marginalized and indigenous communities in climate strategies and planning, plan opportunities for gender roles to mitigate the negative effects of climate change, and develop gender-sensitive indicators related to adaptation to evaluate and monitor vulnerability of women to climate impacts and to address it accordingly. The policy seeks to involve youth in the decision-making through formulation of adaptation & mitigation strategies at local and provincial level, promote opportunities for youth groups to engage in and benefit from KP’s adaptation and mitigation initiatives and establish Community Based Organizations (CBOs) consisting young volunteers focusing on Climate Change adaptation practices.

However, the assessment of thirteen climate related departments of the government of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa reveals that many departments with a central role on policy areas as identified in the provincial climate change policy and action plan are failing at the disclosure of information, which is central for citizen’s participation in climate decision-making. The overall average score of the thirteen departments is only 46%. The compliance level of the Climate Change, Forestry, Environment and Wildlife Department with Section 5 Proactive Disclosure of The KP RTI Act, 2013 is 67%. The department has failed to disclose its annual budget and expenditure statement as mandated under clause ‘g’. At the same time, KP Climate Change, Forestry, Environment & Wildlife has set a good precedent by proactively disclosing information pertaining to the perks and privileges of its officials as mandated under clause “c”, Section 5, KP RTI Act 2013.

Similarly, the overall compliance of the Communications and Works Department is 55%. While Relief, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Department scored only 25%. Timely and proactive disclosure of information by key departments help communities to be better prepared for handling the effects of climate change. At the same time, it also provides key information to the citizens on climate action pursued by their government, thereby increasing trust, transparency and oversight.

Transparency International Pakistan analyzed twelve provincial departments relevant to climate action in Balochistan and observed the implementation of the proactive disclosure provision under Balochistan Right to Information Act 2021.

- The Environment and Climate Change Department stands and Mines and Minerals Departments stand as the second lowest with only 6% compliance with the proactive disclosure.
- None of the departments in Balochistan exceed 50% in their information disclosure, and has lowest average score among the provinces studied in this assessment.
- Only 33% of budgetary information was disclosed on the website, despite being a crucial component in climate resilience and mitigation projects.
- Clause “b” about information, functions and duties of the departments stands the highest with 55% of disclosure rate.
- The information about how citizens can acquire information and contact details of the Public Information Officers (PIOs) is only disclosed by 10% of the departments.

TI PAKISTAN RECOMMENDATIONS

Strengthening Access to Information on Climate Change

1. Key climate-relevant ministries and departments at federal and provincial levels must ensure that information is readily available for the citizens of Pakistan through their websites as mandated under federal and provincial Right to Information Laws.
2. The disclosure of financial information as mandated under RTI laws is key to ensure communities participation in the project design, oversight and identification of any transparency issues. This also covers disclosure of data on climate finance. The climate change ministries/departments at the federal and provincial levels through climate finance units must ensure public access to climate finance data. This will ensure public and civil society oversight to climate action and address risks of corruption.
3. Detailed budget of the climate related public bodies, including proposed and actual expenditures, original or revised revenue targets, actual revenue receipts, revisions in the approved budget and the supplementary budget are not available on the websites of different departments. It is recommended that the departments ensure compliance with budgetary clauses of proactive disclosure under RTI laws.
4. Public Information Officers (PIOs) are the primary implementers of right to information laws in the country, as under the RTI laws, PIOs are the ones with the responsibility to furnish requested information. However, compliance level with the disclosure of PIOs information remains weak. Federal and Provincial Information Commissions – the custodians of RTI laws must insist the departments to release PIOs information through website so that people are aware as to whom to turn to with request for information.
5. There is a need for capacity building of climate relevant public bodies on the nature of climate proofed information that needs to be made publicly available. The information commissions along with the civil society organizations must prioritise on the capacity building and awareness raising on the central role of access to information in the fight against climate change. This will help enhance public bodies understanding of the nature of the relevant data to be disclosed as well as encourage a culture of openness.
